

SUPERVISION OF MEDICAL STUDENTS / RESIDENTS AS TEACHERS

Residents/Fellows play a critical role in educating UofSC School of Medicine Greenville medical students. During general orientation, Residents/Fellows will be provided important information regarding teaching of UofSCSOM Greenville and other visiting students. Residents/Fellows will receive information on Program Level Objectives for the medical school, the curriculum, teacher-learned contracts, and student checklists and assessment. The Residents as Teachers orientation and other instructor training opportunities will provide basic education that addresses the teaching skills needed and relevant to training medical students in both clinical and non-clinical settings. Residents/Fellows will be provided training on topics such as effective teaching methods, feedback, precepting and coaching skills, teaching at the bedside, teaching with simulations for instruction and facilitation of simulation-based trainings, and more.

UofSCSOM Greenville faculty is available to provide other resources to help enhance Residents/Fellows competence as a teacher/educator. Resources may include books, articles, links to videos, and other useful websites. A Resident/Fellow wears many hats and the school's leaders and faculty look forward to working with Residents/Fellows to enhance the skills required when wearing an educator hat.
